Degree planning at ASU is founded on the Charter: ASU is a comprehensive public research university, measured not by whom it excludes, but by whom it includes and how they succeed; advancing research and discovery of public value; and assuming fundamental responsibility for the economic, social, cultural and overall health of the communities it serves.

All academic degree programs go through multiple review and approval processes to ensure their currency, quality, and relevance. Each year, the Provost initiates the academic planning process. The academic deans, in consultation with the directors of the academic units, submit information on all proposed new degrees, concentrations, minors, and certificates for the ensuing year, as well as changes to existing degree titles, program disestablishments, and creation of new organizations, organizational changes and disestablishments. Once reviewed and approved by the Provost, these initiatives begin the review process, including, as applicable, the curriculum committees in the academic unit, college, Graduate College, and University Senate. At each level, a substantive review of the proposed program is completed to ensure quality and to avoid redundancy with other programs. At any step in the approval process, programs can be tabled and/or returned to the academic unit for further clarification and/or revision.

The new degree programs advance issues of community development, health, education, language and linguistics, sustainability, leadership and innovation, and natural resources. In keeping with the 2018 Operational and Financial Review Enterprise Plan, the degree proposals are aligned strategically with our design aspirations to leverage our place, transform society, value entrepreneurship, include use-inspired research, enable student success, fuse intellectual disciplines, be socially embedded, and engage students with issues locally, nationally and internationally.

Committee Review and Recommendation

Arizona State University asks the committee to review and recommend for board approval the new program requests for the degree programs listed above.
